

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE Humanities

DIVISION OF RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Programs for Individual Scholars

FELLOWSHIPS

Fellowships support individuals pursuing advanced research in the humanities that contributes to scholarly knowledge or to the general public's understanding of the humanities. Applicants may be faculty or staff members of colleges or universities, or of primary or secondary schools, or independent scholars or writers. Support is provided for projects that can be completed during the tenure of the award as well as for work that is part of a long-term endeavor. Recipients usually produce scholarly articles, monographs on specialized subjects, books on broad topics, archaeological site reports, translations, editions, or other scholarly tools. Awards are $4,200 per month for periods of six to twelve months. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/fellowships> or write fellowships@neh.gov. Deadline: April 26, 2017

NEH-MELLON FELLOWSHIPS FOR DIGITAL PUBLICATION

NEW!

In cooperation with The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, NEH announces a 3-year, special opportunity within the Fellowships program to support individual scholars pursuing research projects that require digital expression and digital publication. To be eligible, the project must be conceived as digital because the nature of the research and the topics being addressed demand presentation beyond traditional print publication. Successful projects will likely incorporate visual, audio, and/or other multimedia materials with flexible pathways that could not be included in traditionally published books. Like the NEH Fellowships programs, NEH-Mellon Fellowships for Digital Publication awards are $4,200 per month for periods of six to twelve months. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/fellowships> or write fellowships@neh.gov. Deadline: April 26, 2017

AWARDS FOR FACULTY

at Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Hispanic-Serving Institutions, and Tribal Colleges and Universities

Awards to Faculty support individual faculty and staff members at Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Hispanic-Serving Institutions, and Tribal Colleges and Universities. Awards allow for a range of research-related endeavors, including conducting research in primary and secondary materials, writing books and articles based on such research, undertaking research in response to institutional or community needs and aims, and incorporating new research into existing classes. Grants provide time-flexible support for projects that can be completed during the tenure of the award, as well as for work that is part of a long-term endeavor. Awards are $4,200 per month for periods of two to twelve months' tenure (or its equivalent). <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/awards-faculty-historically-black-colleges-and-universities> or write facultyawards@neh.gov. Deadline: April 12, 2017

SUMMER STIPENDS

Summer Stipends provide individuals with an opportunity to pursue research that contributes to scholarly knowledge or to the public's understanding of the humanities. Projects may be completed during the tenure of an award or they may represent part of a long-term endeavor. Recipients usually produce scholarly articles, a monograph on a specialized subject, a book on a broad topic, an archaeological site report, a translation, an edition, a database, or other scholarly tools. The award is $6,000 for two consecutive months of full-time research and writing. Summer Stipends require institutional nomination. Individuals affiliated with institutions of higher education who are interested in Summer Stipends should check with their sponsored research offices for details. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/summer-stipends> or write stipends@neh.gov. Deadline: September 28, 2016

PUBLIC SCHOLAR PROGRAM

NEW!

The Public Scholar program supports well-researched books in the humanities intended to reach a broad readership. Books supported by this program must be grounded in humanities research and scholarship, must address significant humanities themes likely to be of broad interest, and must be written in a readily accessible style. The program supports work at any stage of development, and is open to both individuals affiliated with scholarly institutions and independent scholars. Awards are $4,200 per month for periods of six to twelve months. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/public-scholar-program> or write publicscholar@neh.gov. Deadline: February 1, 2017

Programs for Institution-based and Collaborative Projects

FELLOWSHIP PROGRAMS AT INDEPENDENT RESEARCH INSTITUTIONS

Fellowship Programs at Independent Research Institutions support domestic and foreign research centers that offer fellowship opportunities in the humanities for postdoctoral and independent scholars. Funding priority is given to programs that provide long-term fellowships of four months or longer. Only independent research institutions may apply for NEH funding. Individuals interested in opportunities at one of the NEH-supported institutions should visit <http://www.neh.gov/projects/fpiri.html> or write fpiri@neh.gov. Deadline: August 16, 2016

COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH

Collaborative Research grants support original research undertaken by a team of two or more scholars or research coordinated by an individual scholar that, because of its scope or complexity, requires additional staff or resources beyond the individual's salary. Grants support full-time or part-time activities for periods of one to three years. Grantees are expected to communicate the results of their work to the appropriate scholarly and public audiences. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/collaborative-research-grants> or write collaborative@neh.gov. Deadline: December 7, 2016

SCHOLARLY EDITIONS AND TRANSLATIONS

Scholarly Editions grants support preparation of authoritative and annotated texts and documents of value to humanities scholars and general readers. These materials have been either previously inaccessible or available only in inadequate editions. Projects involve the editing of significant literary, philosophical, and historical materials, but other types of work, such as the editing of musical notation, are also eligible. Editions produced with NEH support contain scholarly and critical apparatus appropriate to the subject matter and format of the edition. Applicants are strongly encouraged to propose electronic editions that provide wide access to scholars and students. <http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/scholarly-editions-and-translations-grants> or write editions@neh.gov. Deadline: December 7, 2016

* * * * *

NEH also supports scholarly research through the Library of Congress's John W. Kluge Fellowships Program (www.loc.gov/loc/kluge), the Japan-US Friendship Commission's Fellowships for Advanced Social Science Research on Japan Program (<http://www.neh.gov/grants/research/fellowships-advanced-social-science-research-japan>), and the National Science Foundation's Documenting Endangered Languages program (<http://www.nsf.gov>).

APPLICATION MATERIALS are available on the Endowment's web site: <http://www.neh.gov>. All applications must be submitted through Grants.gov. Staff members of the Division of Research are available to answer questions; call 202-606-8200 or write the appropriate program. Hearing-impaired applicants may contact NEH via TDD at 1-866-372-2930.