

F00312

Position Summary: The School of Nursing invites applications for the position of Medical/Surgical, Pediatric and/or Maternal Child nursing faculty in the ACEN accredited Bachelor of Science in Nursing program. Participation in teaching, student advising, professional service and scholarly activity is expected. The position is Full-time (9 mo.) tenure track position at the rank of assistant professor. This position will begin Fall 2016.

- Duties & Responsibilities:
1. Actively participates in development and evaluation of curriculum, course content, clinical experiences, and test construction.
 2. Responsible for clinical and didactic courses appropriate to areas of expertise.
 3. Plans and supervises clinical seminars.
 4. Establishes effective coordinating relationships with co-workers and clinical agencies.
 5. Continues education for professional growth.
 6. Conducts continuing education offerings.
 7. Participates in nursing research and other scholarly work, including but not limited to presentations at professional meetings, publications, grant applications, book and textbook reviews, enrollment in university courses.
 8. Participates in academic advising and guidance of students .
 9. Maintains office hours
 10. Participates in the faculty organization and appropriate program, college and university activities
 11. Serves on assigned program, college and university committees.
 12. Sponsors and promotes planned activities of students, program, college and university as requested.
 13. Contributes to the community through involvement in and/or consultation to health related organizations, board memberships, or professional presentations to the public
 14. Participates in planning for the continued growth and progress of the program through faculty and student recruitment and retention efforts.
 15. Holds membership and participates in organizations that advance the profession of nursing, such as ANA, STTI or other professional organizations.