

OVERVIEW

Beck Center for Veterans at Arkansas State University provides veterans a program of rehabilitation, social re-integration and education in a university environment. The center helps to prepare veterans and military-affiliated individuals for post-service careers. Through the center, resources and support are available for the veteran and their family, including support groups on issues such as anger management, depression/anxiety, PTSD, TBI, as well as support groups for marriage and combat veterans. Veterans receive services at no cost to the veteran and/or family member. Examples of services include resources to access the higher education experience, mental health counseling, physical rehabilitation, advocacy, benefits/financial assistance, career/vocational development, and other services to support achievement of post military service goals. Services are designed to supplement, not duplicate, veteran's government benefits and to fill service gaps.

IMPORTANT FACTS-Beck Center for Veterans

- This is the only known comprehensive wounded veteran program of its kind operating on a university campus throughout the United States.
- There are almost 200,000 veterans in the state of Arkansas, representing approximately 9% of the state's population.
- Since 2007, more than 2,000 veterans and dependents have received highly individualized rehabilitative services assisting them throughout the reintegration process. The Center is geared toward reducing suicide among vulnerable populations.
- Many of the participants are involved in specialized therapies including individual and group mental health services.
- Studies validated the effectiveness of The Beck Center model through a grant from the U.S. Department of Defense.
- Since the program's inception in 2007, the center is approaching 1,000 Beck Center participants who have graduated with a baccalaureate, associate, or technical degrees from institutes of higher learning. Currently, over 300 Beck Center for Veterans participants are pursuing an associate, baccalaureate, or master's degree.

SUPPORT THE BECK CENTER FOR VETERANS

Your generous, tax-deductible donation enables us to help more than seventy combat-injured service members returning home from the current conflicts, to provide assistance to their families and help fill in service gaps where they exist. As the number of wounded steadily increases, so do the needs of these brave individuals.
