Wrap - Up

The semester is winding down, and as we look back on the the Fall 2017 semester, we are most grateful. We are grateful for our readership, our students, and the support of faculty and staff. We thank everyone who attended, assisted and promoted our events this semester. We thank the departments who collaborated with us. Thank you for making this semester, the first for our new staff, so successful. Look for our next newsletter in the new year! Happy Holidays!

EVENT SPOTLIGHT

The Multicultural Center hosted a Day of Thanks Dinner for students who were on campus the week of fall break. During the event, we celebrated the contributions of indigenous people, acknowledged the diversity and inclusion present on our campus, and fellowshiped over food. The event was highlighted by the local news as they conducted an interview with the director and took live video shots of students at the event. A special thank you to the faculty and staff who attended the event, your support is always appreciated.

A message from the Director

Fall 2017 has been an awesome semester. This semester we have collaborated with over 12 departments and organizations to produce over 20 programs and initiatives to best serve our students and enhance understanding of social justice. We are placing some final touches on programs for Spring 2018 and we are excited for what is to come.
