- “They (ASU social work students and graduates) have been a great asset to the program and in serving our families.”

SO WHAT:

These findings suggest that students are satisfied with the quality of courses and instruction within the BSW Program. In addition, field instructors are pleased with the performance of students and the perception of graduates by area employers is extremely positive.

HOW WE CHANGED:

In recent years, faculty have worked to raise admission standards and improve procedures associated with the admissions process.

WHAT WE GOT:

As a result, students admitted to the program are more academically prepared for the rigor of the program and are more likely to complete required courses and internships successfully.
